

ST. ALOYSIUS CATHOLIC SCHOOL

Lion's Roar: January 18, 2022

Parents,

Every year, each Catholic School in the Baton Rouge Diocese recognizes an alum as their Distinguished Graduate. This program recognizes individuals who have made a significant contribution to the community by serving as a living example of Gospel Values learned while a student in Catholic school.

St. Aloysius Catholic School is proud to name Dr. Joseph "Jeb" E. Broyles as our 2021-2022 Distinguished Graduate. Jeb is a 1984 SAS Alum. He is an Orthopedic Surgeon at the Bone and Joint Clinic of Baton Rouge. He is also a devoted husband, father of three SAS graduates, brother, and son. Jeb gives of his time generously in service on the Parish council, is a Eucharistic Minister, an ACTS team leader, Bible study leader, Kairos team leader for the Prison ministry at Angola, volunteer photographer, Knights of Columbus member, and Come Lord Jesus member. In addition, Jeb has donated his time and talent to those in the community who need a hip replacement but cannot afford this service. He does so free of charge and in return all he asks is that the recipient bakes cookies and delivers them to his office, which he then distributes to the homeless shelter or the prisoners involved in Kairos at Angola.

As part of Catholic Schools Week, an awards dinner is held to honor all the Distinguished Graduates. We look forward to celebrating with Dr. Broyles and his family at the Dinner that will be held in late January during Catholic Schools Week. -Erin Candilora

TECH TIPS: Online Gaming: Risks of Online Gaming

While gaming has the potential for positive benefits, it is also a place where cyberbullying can happen. If someone is not performing well in a game, other players may curse or make negative remarks that can turn into bullying, or even exclude the person from playing together.

Anonymity of players and the use of avatars allow users to create alter-egos or fictional versions of themselves, which is part of the fun of gaming. But it also allows users to harass, bully, and sometimes gang up on other players. When players are anonymous, it can be difficult to hold them accountable when they bully others and use the game as a tool of harassment. Some players may use the game as a means to harass others or to get their personal information, like usernames and passwords. They can even make others' personal information available online through a tactic called "doxing." Doxing can compromise not just a child's information, but their parent's information as well, and can make them targets of bullying and harassment.

Gamers often use online gaming communities and social media to connect with other players, learn tips and tricks, share strategies, create teams/guilds, and connect while they play or watch others play. These types of online communities are also a place where cybercriminals may seek to cause harm – for instance, by posting links that appear to be game-related but are truly computer viruses or malware (software designed to disrupt, damage or gain access to a computer) or where predators may seek access to children.
